Catalytic Converter Theft

Over the past few years, catalytic converter theft has become a growing issue among drivers of all kinds. No matter where you live or what you drive, there is a chance thieves with a battery powered Sawzall might sneak up and hack your car out when you least expect it. This not only compromises your vehicle's street-legal emissions status, but also causes a terrible exhaust sound, poor performance, and expensive repairs.

Converter Guard Protection:

By permanently etching catalytic converter with a registered number, highlighted by a window decal warning, the Converter Guard vehicle becomes easily identifiable. Auto thieves rarely steal a vehicle parts which are identifiable.
